

LOS ANGELES

The Vogue fashion team flew to the City of Angels for March's cover shoot.
By Elizabeth White

STAY

Petit Ermitage is the perfect West Hollywood bolthole for artists and travellers who love a whimsical detail. Spend your evenings unwinding in its rooftop flower garden and your days lounging by the saltwater pool. Art by Dalí and de Kooning adorns the walls, while bespoke Le Labo candles in every room help guests achieve peak Californian bliss.

BURGER RECORDS

This Orange County store (also an independent record label) is a great place to discover new bands and listen to live music.

SHOP

BOOK SOUP

Sunset Boulevard's celebrated independent bookshop has been catering to Hollywood bookworms since 1975. This Los Angeles institution sells more than 60,000 titles - specialising in art, film, photography and music - and hosts talks and events, too.

EXERCISE

Forget spinning, hiking is the chicest form of exercise in the city of the beautiful and the toned. Our favourite trails include: Runyon Canyon (left) - challenging, but worth it for the open-air yoga sessions and celebrity-spotting; Will Rogers State Park - an insiders' secret, just off Sunset Boulevard with incredible panoramic views of the city; and Temescal Canyon - not for faint hearts, but the intrepid are rewarded with a picture-perfect waterfall.

PACK

FENDI SUNGLASSES, £369

NIKE FLYKNIT TRAINERS, £130

LUCAS HUGH CAPRI LEGGINGS, £90

VISIT

Spend a day at Rose Bowl Antiques Market, held on the second Sunday of every month. Fashion director Lucinda Chambers recommends taking half a dozen huge plastic shoppers with you - fill them to your heart's content then retire to a nearby pool to contemplate your finds.

MARIO TESTINO; RUSSELL GEARHART; PAUL ROSALES; GETTY